'HANDS OFF!' SEAMEN WARN GOVERNMENT

Union Threatens Nation-Wide Strike If U. S. Attempts to Move Ships.

(By Associated Press)

A union threat to call on all organized labor for an over-all nation-wide general strike if the government moves "any of our ships, as it has threatened to do," was voiced today by a union official as the world's greatest maritime fleet lay landlocked behind a ring of striking, picketing AFL seamen.

The threat was voiced by Paul Hall, port agent of the striking Seafarer's International union (AFL).

"If the government moves any of our ships as it has threatened to do," Hall said, "we will call on all organized labor to come out with us for an over-all national general strike. That means street car conductors, machinists and everybody else."

Hall explained that an appeal for such a general strike would be made through various local central labor councils, should the government attempt to move ships.

He said the seamen's strike now was "100 percent effective in all ports," and added "we are in fine shape and prepared to strike from here on in."

"We believe its effectiveness is beginning to tell and a complete tieup will win our demands," Hall said.

Half Million Idle.

Pier sheds were dark behind closed entrances and cargo booms were fixed tight as thousands of vessels and a half million men were idle in the greatest maritime strike in history.

This was the picture as the strike of members of the Sailors union of the Pacific and the Seafarers International union entered its third day, and the second day of picketing:

Transocean passenger traffic was suspended; import and export of raw materials vital to the nation's mills and factories were halted; more than 250,000 tons of relief cargo for Europe and Asia were tied up in 125 UNRRA ships.

Officers of the two unions claimed more than 2,500 ships lay in Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf ports without crews.

TRUMAN HALTS 3RD ATOM TEST

White House Order Postpones Deep Water Detonation.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman has postponed indefinitely the proposed third atomic bomb test at Bikini.

A statement issued by the White House said test "C," planned as a deep water detonation, should not be conducted in the near future in view of the successful completion of the first two tests and the great amount of information obtained from them.

This test was to have been held some time next year.

The action was taken by the president of his advisers on this subject, the announcement said.

Teacher Wants Home For Three Ere Baby Comes

(In the hope Mansfield can find housing for some of the 400 veterans needing homes, the News-Journal is presenting daily one typical case.)

Survival of two typhoons, in one of which his ship went down, plus the Okinawa, Philippine and Borneo campaigns, should entitle Thomas Lerch, today's veteran, to relief from campaigning for awhile.

Since July, however, Lerch, now vocational agricultural teacher at Union Rural high school, has been waging what seems to be his hardest campaign—the search for a home. He is especially anxious to find that home before his wife, a former nurse, presents an addition to the family, expected soon.

At present the Lerchs live in one room in a hotel. They eat all of their meals out, which takes a good sized chunk out of a teacher's salary.

If you can end Lerch's campaigning and give him the peace of mind necessary to good teaching, call the Veterans' information center (1730-6).

Court Says War Hero Goes Free

Donald W. Burson, 22-year-old winner of three Bronze Stars for heroism in World War 11, has won his fight for freedom from the Ohio State reformatory.

The Fifth District Court of Appeals yesterday reversed a decision of the Richland county common pleas court and granted Burson's sister, Mrs. Ida Irwin of Canton, a writ of habeas corpus freeing the former serviceman.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke of OSR said he would release the veteran when a copy of the decision is received unless the state, through the attorney general, appeals to a higher court.

The legal battle began when Burson, convicted of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent, was placed on 2-year probation beginning June 29, 1942, in the Stark county (Canton) common pleas court.

Fought In Europe.

The appeals court's review of the facts involved showed that Burson left Ohio for California without his probation officer's consent before the probation period was ended. He returned to Canton in 1943, however, and was inducted into the army, serving until April 9, 1946, mostly in Europe where he saw action in the Ardennes, Rhineland and Central Europe.

Upon his discharge from the army, his probation officer brought him before Judge A. C. L. Barthlemeh in Stark county common pleas court for alleged probation violation. Judge Barthlemeh, notwithstanding the fact that Burson's probation period had expired June 29, 1944, extended the period until June 23, 1947.

On May 29 of this year, Judge Barthlemeh revoked the probation entirely because Burson had been convicted of intoxication. He sentenced him to OSR for one to 20 years on the auto theft charge on which the probation period had expired.

Journal 'Silent.'

But, the appeals court observed in its opinion, the Stark county court's journal "was utterly silent on Burson between the date his original probation period started and his arrest by the probation officer."

"So far as the record is concerned, Burson's probation period continued to run until June 29, 1944 at which time it expired," the appeals court's decision, a unanimous verdict of its three judges, said.

As a consequence, it added, the "probation officer was without authority to arrest" Burson as a parole violator at the time of the intoxication conviction, because his

Cabby Wanted His Six Bits; Loses Pistol

The cab driver was determined to get his fare.

He told officers that his cab, owned by the Service Cab company, carried two customers to Lewis avenue early this morning. No one was at home at the Lewis avenue address so the customers asked if they might ride back down town.

Arriving at Sixth and Main streets, the cabby asked for his 75 cents fare. His customers refused to pay, he said.

Then, according to the customers, the driver "pulled a gun."

Police who investigated confiscated the weapon—a .22 caliber pistol. The customers told police they would not file charges.

Ministers to Discuss U. N. Assembly Postponement.

PARIS —(AP)— The Big Five Foreign Ministers will meet at 9 p. m. Sunday to discuss the possible postponement of the general assembly of the United Nations set for Sept. 23.

Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov will assume the chairmanship in line with the principle of rotating that job.

Teachers Agree To Open Schools

PORTSMOUTH — (INS) — The four-day strike of 25 Bloom township school teachers was ended today.

Teachers at Webster and Scioto Furnace, who seek a 25 per cent salary increase, agreed to return to classrooms Monday after the township board of education promised to seek funds through an election referendum.

EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW:

King of Rats Threatens Blackball of Mansfield

By JOHN MINE

It was rather difficult to get into the right frame of mind to interview a rat.

But that's what the city editor said. He said: "Mine, I want you to go out and interview a rat and find out what he thinks of this extermination campaign."

So what could I do?

I wondered how to approach the assignment. Should I chaump on a hunk of cheese and make like Humphrey Bogart?

Does one have to be "announced," or may he just rip off the lid of the nearest garbage can and go to work?

The assignment contained numerous perplexing problems. But in the newspaper business, well you have to expect such things to pop up once in awhile.

Would that there had been a book of "ratiquette" in our office before I plumped my pad in my pocket and strolled out of the building.

As the door closed behind me, I instinctively reached in my pocket. Did I forget it?. I wondered. No, there it was. My press pass. No use taking chances, I thought—rats or no rats.

Where to begin, of course, was the first problem. Any other news "source" may be contacted by phone or by just walking into his office.

SEEK KIDNAPER, CHILD IN OHIO

Hint Kansas City Maid Was Industrial School Inmate.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Ohio police and highway patrolmen spread a dragnet today for the 19-year-old girl last seen with Madeline Tobias, 3, Kansas City child believed to have been kidnaped.

The 19-year-old girl, known only as Mildred Louise King, was believed to be heading for Ohio, from which she claimed to have come. She was hired as nurse to the child early this week by Mr. and Mrs. Philip Tobias, and disappeared Thursday at the same time as her 3-year-old charge.

Although the nurse told her employers she was a former inmate of the Girls' Industrial school, Delaware, O., officials said no one by that name had ever been known there. "Mildred Louise King" was undoubtedly an alias, they pointed out.

When last seen the two were some 60 miles east of Kansas City in Odessa, Mo., a route they would take if they were returning to Ohio. No positive identification was available, but Ohio authorities spread the alarm.

JEWS SNUB PARLEY

LONDON —(AP)— A conference on the future of the troubled Holy Land, scheduled to start here Tuesday, appeared destined today to open without the participation of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, which the British government announced had refused to attend except on its own terms, and without Palestine's Arabs.

Amvets to Name Post For Fallen War Hero

Mansfield Amvets, meeting last night in Memorial hall, voted unanimously to name their post of more than 300 members the Robert P. Spreng Post No. 26 of the Ohio Department of Amvets. Mansfield thus will pay lasting tribute to the companion of another war hero whose memory has been perpetuated at Shelby.

Lt. Spreng, 28-year-old bombardier on a Flying Fortress, died in the same airplane crash near Bangalore, India, that killed Capt. Elmer Parsel of Plymouth, for whom Shelby's Parsel Air Depot was named. The accident occurred April 2, 1942.

Lt. Spreng was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Spreng, 414 Park avenue west. He and Capt. Parsel were among the first Richland county servicemen to die during Warld War II.

Adoption of a name for the post followed adoption of a new constitution and by-laws. The post was organized last April.

Atty. Donald E. Smith, chairman of the constitution committee, read both constitution and by-laws as drawn up by a committee that also included Atty. John Catlett, Frank Heitz and Robert Bonham.

As provided in the constitution, five members were elected to one-year terms on the executive committee which also includes post officers. They were Frank Newton, Bud Kenyon, Frank Heitz, W. W. Purdy and Earl Gaar.

Post Commander Robert E. Rogers named Betty Thompson, William Bechtel and Louis Doerr to an awards and ceremonies committee.

TWO BOYS, 6, HURT; DRIVERS GET WARNING

Chief Asks Stress On Safety After Autos Hit Pair of School Children.

The injury of two six-year-old boys en route to or from school brought an official warning to motorists today to drive with more care.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates cited the accidents as evidence that drivers must exercise even more-than-normal caution with a great number of children walking along and across streets.

Six-year-old Darrell Fry of Bellville was reported in "fair" condition in General hospital recovering from a fractured right leg suffered when he was struck by a car on his way home from school yesterday afternoon.

In Mansfield, another six-year-old, James Tanner of 93 East Fourth street, suffered minor injuries when he was struck by a car at Adams and East Fourth streets. Emery J. Jones of Mansfield, R. D. 1, driver of the car, told police that the boy ran into the path of his car. Police said the boy was taken home by Jones and then "sent to school" by his mother.

"Now that school has started, people should be especially careful in driving in the vicinity of the schools, and also in other parts of the city when school is taking up or letting out," he declared.

Two other Mansfielders also were injured late yesterday and today in industrial accidents. Treated and released at General hospital for minor injuries were Elden Hardy of Ashland, and Donald Long of Crestline, both at Westinghouse.

UNREST BREWS INSIDE RUSSIA

Hints of Soviet Dissension Reach Peace Delegates.

PARIS—(INS)—Delegates to the peace conference in Paris were obviously concerned today with rumors and reports of great internal strains and dissension in the Soviet Union.

A number of representatives connected this picture of Russia's domestic scene with some aspects of Soviet foreign policy, especially the apparent inclination to keep large occupation forces in Europe and Asia.

It is known that the American, British and other governments have been receiving reports on Russia's internal difficulties for some time.

A highly authoritative source in the American delegation pointed out that the Soviet radio and press were confirming secret information with their reports of dissidence within the USSR.

Pravda, Izvestia and the Moscow radio, in its broadcasts for home consumption, have been conducting a furious attack on "bourgeois" elements in Russia. This press and radio campaign has been directed chiefly at the heads of Soviet industries, many of whom have been accused of incompetence and neglect of workers' interests.

PLANS PROBE

Senate Committee to Check Bilbo, M'Keller Votes.

WASHINGTON - (AP) - Chairman Allen J. Ellender, D., La., today promised a fearless and impartial investigation by his senate campaign committee into the Mississippi and Tennessee Democratic primaries.

Ellender said investigators will be sent into those two states as soon as capable men can be found to do the jobs.

He said they would be ordered to make a thorough investigation of complaints charging irregularities against two of his colleagues —Sens. Kenneth D. McKellar, D., Tenn., and Theodore G. Bilbo, D., Miss BAD NAUHEIM, Germany—(AP) - Continental base section headquarters announced today that the U.S. Army transport ship, Edmund B. Alexander, was damaged by an "internal explosion" last night 15 miles north of Bremerhaven. No casualties were reported.

Blackout Of Knees Coming

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The government may yield an inch to fashion in the battle of the bare knees.

But not until next spring, that is. The civilian production administration says it will fight it out on the present hem line all winter.

Clothing Chief Theodore Maynard promised the women's dress industry that CPA will "seriously consider" an industry plan to let skirts down by easy stages, starting with the cutting of spring and summer models.

CUTTING VICTIM FOUND IN DITCH; TWO MEN HELD

Blood-Soaked Auto Discovered In Olivesburg Road 20 Feet Away.

So weak from loss of blood he could not tell sheriff's deputies what had happened, esse Hall, 40, of 49 King street, lay in General hospital today. He was found suffering from stab wounds in a ditch along Olivesburg road at 1:20 a. m. Physicians reported his condition as "poor."

Deputy Sheriff Foster F. Palmer reported finding Hall in a ditch about 20 feet from an abandoned auto, the front seat of which was soaked with blood. The auto was in the middle of the road with its lights burning and its doors open.

Taken in custody were two men, one of whom gave a rural address and the other an address on Averill avenue. They were reported to have been seen in the company of Hall earlier in the evening

Noises of Fight.

First indication of "trouble" on Olivesburg road came from C. M. Chatlain. He notified the sheriff's department that he heard noises that sounded like a fight in front of his home at midnight.

Palmer, investigating, found the abandoned auto and Hall in the ditch, in front of the Andrew Kissel home, about one-half mile north of the Chatlain farm.

No knife was found but deputies discovered a blood-covered screwdriver which they believe Hall used in defending himself.

Cut Several Times.

The King street man was cut several times in each arm and leg, in the abdomen and in the chest, the latter said to be the most serious wound because it exposed a lung.

No charges had been filed against the two suspects at noon today.

Another cutting was reported by Mansfield police. They said that Fannie McClellan, rear of 161 West Sixth street, was wounded in the side of her neck and on one hand in an altercation at her home about 10:15 p. m. yesterday. An East Sixth street woman was held for questioning.

REACH ACCORD

Italy, Austria End Dispute Over South Tyrol.

PARIS - (AP) - Alcide De Gasperi, Italian premier and Dr. Karl Gruber, Austrian foreign minister, announced today that they had signed an agreement settling the differences between their two countries over the South Tyrol.

A conference commission of the peace conference, meanwhile, deferred action on a proposal for a court of human rights. Samuel Reber, representing the United States, said that the court plan should be considered by the United Nations instead of by the peace conference.

Under the Italo-Austrian agreement the South Tyrol remains Italian but regional autonomy will be granted to German-speaking inhabitants of the Bolzano and Trento provinces.

Predict Bulgaria Will Remove King

LONDON —(INS)— Diplomatic circles in London are convinced today that King Simeon will be ousted tomorrow when Bulgarian voters go to the polls to choose between a monarchial or republican form of government.

It was pointed out that the Bulgarian electorate has been exhorted by all eight political parties in the country to vote against continuance of the nominal rule of King Simeon under a regency council.

CEILINGS UP, SUPPLY DOWN, OPA REVEALS

Part of Normal Supply for Future Already Eaten, Declares Baker.

OPA OUTLOOK

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A broad outline of what OPA expects in prices in the months ahead came today from Geoffrey Baker, deputy administrator of the control agency, as follows:

If milk and dairy products "go zooming out of reason" the decontrol board will return price ceilings.

The recent flood of price advances required by the new OPA extension act is over.

"OPA rent control stands intact. Rents will not be raised," Baker said.

Rayon clothes are expected to stay near present levels; lower priced woolen clothes are slightly more expensive; cotton clothes and goods have climbed because of soaring raw cotton prices and will not stabilize until raw cotton does.

Prices on most new automobiles will remain near present levels except for limited boosts on "certain make and models."

Refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, radios and similar products have received most of the increases that will be allowed.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Housewives got a double order of bad news on new retail meat prices today from the OPA.

First they learned the new ceilings will boost aggregate retail meat bills $600,000,000 a year.

Next, Geoffrey Baker, deputy OPA administrator, predicted in a broadcast that after ceilings go into effect again next Tuesday meat probably will be scarce.

Spokesman Voices Gloomy Forecast

CHICAGO —(INS)— A meat famine, even greater than that suffered last spring, was forecast for the nation today by spokesmen for the meat industry. Spokesmen for the retail meat and packing industries were agreed that cuts of beef, pork and lamb would appear for the last time today on the average American table.

"We may as well face the fact there is not enough meat for everybody to get all he wants of every kind," Baker said. "And the fact that we've already eaten part of the supply that would be coming in during the next few months—if the removal of ceilings hadn't rushed it in earlier — aggravates the situation."

Baker said the new ceilings are adjusted "so that the average family will be affected least. . . . You'll find the largest increases are on the choicest cuts such as prime rib roasts, sirloin steak and loin lamb chops."

* * *

$600,000,000 Higher.

The $600,000,000 jump results from an average increase of three and three-quarter cents a pound in retail meat prices ordered by the agency when ceilings return to the butcher shops on Tuesday.

This is the difference, OPA said, between average meat ceilings on June 30, when controls lapsed and the new higher prices, which still

YEP, IT'S WARM

Temperature Climbs to 84 At Noon Today.

Summer temperatures played a return engagement today, and Mansfielders sweltered in an unseasonal heat wave that sent the mercury to 84 at noon.

Even with a prediction of scattered thundershowers in the Lake Erie region, whether observers saw little relief until Monday. The high temperature yesterday was 86 the low today 65. Cleveland and Columbus reported high readings of 89 yesterday.

By tomorrow, Northern Ohio should come under the influence of the edge of a cold air mass moving eastward over Ontario. A high of 92 degrees was recorded in Toledo yesterday and Findlay and Port Clinton had readings of 91.

DENIES ENGAGEMENT

LONDON—(AP)—Sir Alan Lascelles, private secretary to the king, denied today as "incorrect" a story published by the London Star saying that the engagement of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip of Greece was "confidently expected in circles close to the royal family."

Blood Type Index For Emergencies Planned By Local Moose Lodge

Mansfield is going to have a blood type index available at all times to permit quick contact of donors in emergencies.

Paul W. Ritchie, secretary of the Mansfield Moose lodge, said today that "a blood donor and first-aid movement, begun as part of a national project during the war, had been so successful that plans are now in progress to expand and retain a permanent file of the blood type of lodge members which will be available both to lodge members and to the community.

"Led by our champion blood donors, Paul Kozik and Ida Metcalf, who are called 'the human blood banks' for the outstanding records they established as donors during the war, we are setting up indices of our ex-service men, with Jacob Hert in charge, and Edward Wyllie handling civilian members," Ritchie continued.

The cooperation of the Health Board has been assured, and we are going to set up definite periods for blood-typing at which time trained nurses will be on hand."

Although no publicity has been given the plan, Ritchie pointed out that "there are an average of two calls per month which lodge members answer."

As an example, he recalled a call some time ago for a very rare type of blood not available in a near-by town.

"By virtue of the fact that we had been building up our index, and that our lodge members seem to have some rare types, we were able to render urgently required assistance in this case," Ritchie said.

Bright plaid shirts in 100% wool are always practical to wear with plain skirts and slacks, about $6.

New York Notes

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

The Word Was Sensational—At ten minutes past noon on a warm August Thursday just twenty years ago, Rudolph Valentino, the most passionately admired actor in motion picture history, died in Polyclinic hospital at the age of 31. Three doctors and two nurses were at his bedside; a friend was outside the door. No relative was near.

But thanks to the temper of a hopped-up era, the quiet closing of this player's eyes precipitated an exhibition of mob hysteria, publicity grabbing, violent emotional display and jazzy journalism which has not been equalled by any other event in the two decades since.

* * *

The headlines screamed that "the films' greatest lover" had "played his last role" and it was easy to see why they called him that. It is easy to see even now if you catch a revival of one of his pictures or even pick up a still shot that shows him in costume for "The Sheik." He had burning eyes and smooth cheeks that looked as if oil had been rubbed into them, and because he had no Adam's apple he looked beautiful in what seemed to be his favorite attire—a white shirt ripped open to the waist. He was daring enough, and Italian enough, to wear suede-topped pointed shoes and high-waisted trousers and a silver slave braclet at a time when even wristwatches were considered rather effete by the average American male; he tango'd like a cat while the rest of the nation's men sweated through the Charleston; he symbolized the cloak and dagger in an epoch of yellow slickers and hip flasks.

So when he died the flappers and their mothers and their curious brothers and husbands turned out by the hundreds of thousands to mourn and weep and wonder and faint and push and pray, and the rain fell on them and soaked their summer dresses and the writers of that day—Mark Hellinger and Nunnally Johnson and Russel Crouse and Damon Runyon—watched them and listened to them and tried to figure out why they were there.

* * *

This generation has never seen anything like it. The death certificate had not been signed before there were rumors that Valentino had died, not of peritonitis, as the doctors said, but of a bullet wound received at a party two weeks before. Another report said he had been poisoned. It was whispered, and duly published, that on his deathbed he had confided the name of his "secret romance" to a friend, Frank Menillo. Pola Negri announced that she and Valentino were to have been married. Friends hinted that if he had lived he would have remarried his first wife, Jean Acker. His manager voiced a belief that he would have remarried his second wife, Natacha Rambova.

* * *

The great lover's body, emaciated by illness but carefully embalmed and tinted by the same process used on Caruso, was placed on a catafalque in the tapestry-hung Gold Room at Campbell's and photographed with a fan, Eva Miller, kneeling before it. Police reserves were called out to handle the 100,000 men, women and children who fought to get inside, and emergency hospital was set up inside the funeral parlor for those injured in the rioting. Reporters flashed the arrival of Constance Talmadge bearing a wreath of roses and sweet peas. At a special night meeting the local Fascisti organized a guard of honor and a huge floral offering arrived "from Benito Mussolini."

* * *

Pola Negri, attired in a cloche hat and a $3,000 mourning dress, arrived from Hollywood in a burst of emotion and publicity. She screamed and fainted at Grand Central Station, screamed and fainted in the lobby of the Ambassador hotel, calmed down long enough to grant an interview to the press ("He was more like a little boy than a heart-breaking shiek") then prayed and fell unconscious at the bier. The crowd stampeded outside Campbell's and the establishment's press agent, Harry Klemfuss, was knocked through the plate glass window of the parlors by the rear end of a policeman's horse. An attractive blonde fell in with him. The window shattered and came down "like a guillotine," one writer reported. Three policemen and a motion picture cameraman lay on the sidewalk bleeding and the police commissioner arrived to take charge.

* * *

Admission to the funeral mass was by card only—600 were invited. Inside the church, Texas Guinan and two of her "little girls" wept noisily. Richard Dix and Ben Lyon stood by the altar; Mayor Walker and Douglas Fairbanks were honorary pallbearers. Outside, in the crowd, many of the women wore widow's weeds.

There was never anything like it, anywhere.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, September 7.

CERTAIN dubious, complicated and inharmonious conditions are presaged by conflicting planetary operations. It might be possible that home, social, cultural and purely personal issues may be at the root of such complications, reacting on the solidity of the ambitions, aspirations or worthy endeavors.

Indulgence, prodigality, waste, show, a tendency to lavish, luxurious or flashy gestures may entail loss of prestige, job, repute, as well as funds or other sound assets. Check rigidly on conduct, outlay, possessions, and count the cost in the last analysis.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may have to make a keen and shrewd analysis of their funds, possessions, capital, and all physical as well as financial assets, before engaging in any sort of hazardous or experimental project, since a reckless tendency to gamble, plunge or to personal extravagance, show, lavishness or wild and unjustifiable investments, may bring inharmonious reactions on domestic, social or affectional relations.

TO GO OR NOT TO GO?

If doubting you should do a thing,
Don't do it.
There then will be no chance that
You may rue it.

—Old Mother Nature.

Little Wobblenose, the small and very young grandson of Peter Rabbit, had lost something while sitting perfectly still in a bramble-tangle far back in the Old Pasture. One minute he had it and the very next minute he had lost it. It was his appetite. He had lost it when the pleasant stranger in the handsome red coat just outside the bramble-tangle had grinned at him. It was intended for a friendly grin but it showed a lot of sharp teeth. It was the sight of those teeth that took away the little Rabbit's appetite. The pleasant stranger had offered to take him to a patch of sweet clover. Just the mention of it had made his mouth water. Then he had seen those teeth.

When he said he wasn't hungry Reddy Fox, for, of course, that was who the stranger was, tried not to show his disappointment. He grinned again. This was a mistake, for it once more showed all those sharp teeth.

"You may not be hungry now but you will be by and by. Why not go with me now and see where the clover is? Then you will know the way and can go by yourself when you are hungry," said he.

Even the smartest people make mistakes. Reddy made one now. He grinned again, and again the little Rabbit saw all those sharp teeth. "I don't feel like going just now," said he.

"It is only a very little way from here. You can run over there and back in almost no time at all. It is the nicest clover I ever have seen, and I get around a lot. Yes, sir. I get around a lot. If I ate clover I fear I would be selfish and eat it all myself. But I don't eat clover and I want you to have it. I've taken a liking to you, little Rabbit, and I am sure that when we are better acquainted I am going to like you better," said Reddy.

"What do you eat?" asked Little Wobblenose.

"Oh, I eat a lot of things, but clover doesn't happen to be one of them. That is why I want you to have it," replied Reddy.

"Thank you," said the little Rabbit politely. "That is very nice of you. I hope everybody I meet will be as nice to me. It is true that I am a stranger here, but I am sure I can find my way around. It won't be necessary for you to take me to that clover. If you will tell me where to look for it I am sure I can find it."

"You are small to go wandering about alone. I would feel a lot better if you went with me. Indeed I would. I tell you what we'll do: You stay here where you will be perfectly safe. In a little while I will come back. By that time you will have a good appetite I am sure. Then I will take you to the clover patch. How about that?" said Reddy.

Just then Sammy Jay's voice was heard. He was calling as he flew and he was coming that way. Reddy glanced up. In his eyes was a look of annoyance. "We'll leave it that way. I won't be gone long," said he hastily and slipped away in the bushes. "If Sammy Jay should see me talking to that silly little Rabbit he would spoil everything," he muttered.

"He acted as if he didn't want to be seen. Yes, sir, he did so," said the little Rabbit, talking to himself. He twitched his wobbly little nose. "What a funny smell! It comes from where he was sitting. Can it be that he left it there? I don't like it. It gives me a queer feeling, an uneasy feeling½. He was nice, but I'm glad he has gone. I wish I knew just where that clover is. After all I may have been foolish not to go with him. I liked him, all but his teeth. If I hadn't seen those perhaps I would have gone with him. Of course, one as big as he would have big teeth and sharp teeth. Still they gave me a scary feeling. I wonder how far it really is to that clover. I wonder if I can find it if I go looking for it.

He hopped to the edge of the bramble-tangle and poked his head out. Should he go look for that clover or not? He decided to and took one hop. Then he decided not to and hopped back. He thought about the clover and his mouth watered. H twitched his wobbly little nose and caught the scent of the handsome stranger. It reminded him of those teteth. His mouth stopped watering.

Barclay On Bridge

"Shoot the works!" and "Go after everything!" are necessary mottoes for the play of many a hopeless-looking contract. Striving for maximum good fortune can be your only chance in some cases. It may not pan out. But if it doesn't, at least you have the satisfaction of knowing you have given yourself the only possible hope of success. And when the extreme measures do work, you have something to file away in your memory and enjoy every time you bring it forth for inspection—or to use as a means of edifying listeners.

And there was J. Harlin O'Connell, star of the Union club of New York's Inter-Club league, put by his admiring partner into a supposed sacrifice contract against an opponents' 5-Clubs which could not be made. So, to avoid an appreciable net loss, he had to "do the impossible" and make it.

The defense got their book of two tricks in a hurry with the heart K and club 2 to the A, whereupon East returned the heart Q, which was ruffed by the diamond 2. After studying and developing a plan, Mr. O'Connell saw he could not afford to waste the spade K as a dummy entry to try the diamond finesse, especially since the double indicated West as having the trump K anyway. So he tried to find it singleton by laying down the diamond A, which worked. Now he had his needed four entries to the dummy.

He led the diamond Q, ruffed the heart 7, ruffed the club 9 with the diamond 10 ruffed the heart 8, then laid down the diamond J and 8. The last diamond squeezed West. With three spades each held by South, West and North, West also had the heart A and the 9 was in dummy. To hold the heart, he threw the spade 8. The spade K, A and 10 then took the last three tricks.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

A spy at one of Mr. Toscanini's rehearsals at the National Broadcasting company reports that the maestro shattered even his own record for breaking batons and tearing up sheet music when something goes wrong.

In this case, a harp player required to play one single note in a sympathy, plucked the wrong string. The orchestra began over again and when the time came for the harpist to play his note, he was so flustered that he repeated his mistake.

The maestra strode from the rehearsal in speechless rage. When the orchestra assembled for the actual broadcast the next afternoon, the harpist discovered that every string but the one he would be called upon to pluck had been removed from the instrument.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1946

Drive carefully tomorrow—the country can't stand an accidental death toll of 400 a week.

That delayed shipment of August weather has finally arrived and is being distributed to pleased customers all over the country.

Eleanor Roosevelt broadens the outlook by observing: "All of us will agree, I think, that housing, not only for veterans but for many other people, is most important now" —thus stating a simple fact in a quite convincing way.

More Jockeying of Meat Prices

ON TUESDAY the ceiling price of meat goes up but the cost comes down. This is not so paradoxical as it sounds. There is now no ceiling price, so the ceilings which go into effect Tuesday will average one-fifth higher than those which were in effect on June 30 when OPA controls were temporarily dropped.

OPA claims that the new ceilings will roll back prices about 30 per cent from where they stand now.

That sounds excellent. But there are some skeptics who will remark: "Prices on WHAT meat?"

Packers who bought livestock when ceilings were off are not likely to sell meat products at ceiling prices which will force them to take a loss. That means holding indefinitely the meat bought in an uncontrolled market, or letting it slip into black market channels where it would be sold at a profit. The public suffers either way. It gets no meat, or it pays black market prices. In this instance the OPA has defeated its own purpose.

Producers withheld livestock in the early summer expecting price ceilings to go. They went. Cattle glutted the market. Then with the prospect of returning price ceilings even more cattle were rushed to market to take advantage of still-high prices.

Thus, a great quantity of the nation's normal meat supply is now in the peculiar position of being forced into storage or into the black market by the OPA—which claims it is trying to insure an even supply of meat at fair prices to the average consumer.

Now the OPA is beginning to issue "warnings" about eggs and dairy products over which there is no price control. The aim of course, is to get these items back under control, too. Will poultry and eggs also be forced into the same impossible situation as the meat supply by another OPA blunder?

Who Can Give 'Gambling Rights'?

ATTENTION of The News-Journal has been directed to a strange sort of offer that is being made on a government postal card that has passed through the mail under Mansfield postmark and which invites reply to a "Mansfield-Ohio-USA" address.

Under the heading, "To Whom It May Concern," the offer is worded: "Want the license to operate the gambling rights of your city, county, state, free from governor, police courts or county officers' interference, under seal and signature of the proper authority of the government of the United States —Write—," then the name and address is given.

What goes on? Is that a legitimate offer by an authorized person or organization? Is it intended as a joke? Or is it somebody's crack-pot idea?

In any event it seems deserving of investigation by postal authorities as it has a very odd sound—and there's no telling to how large a mailing list it may extend.

Reasons for the Soap Shortage

REASONS behind the soap shortage are many, adding up to the involved kind of situation heard of frequently this year.

Fat is a major ingredient of soap. There's a shortage of fat because women are not turning in salvage kitchen grease at the wartime rate. Because imports of coconut oil have dropped 75 per cent in the last five years and total United States imports of oils are only one-third of pre-war volume. Because some of the fat which is available has been used for paint and shortening instead of soap.

Behind the fat supplies are more explanations. OPA ceilings are lower than most prices offered for foreign fats in other countries. And fat pigs are scarcer this year. And less corn has gone into fattening beef, which used to provide plenty of fat in the packing house. And meat grabbed by the black market puts no soap on the shelf.

On top of all this, the natives in the East Indies feel it's hardly worth their while to pick many coconuts these days, hence the shortage of coconut oil.

Soap manufacturers say housewives are also to blame, for their habit of snapping up every soapflake they spot, whether they need it or not. As usual, the boarders make life difficult for the soapless.

Apparently all the mere consumer can do is save her kitchen fat and turn it in and use the soap she can get down to the last bubble.

School for Political Campaigners

HERE is something that may make the old-time politician scoff. A school on the organization and conduct of political campaigns is being started in Chicago. There will be courses on getting out the vote, on the organization of special groups, such as women, youth, veterans. Attention will be given even to details such as the use of music at meetings, on the air, and on sound trucks.

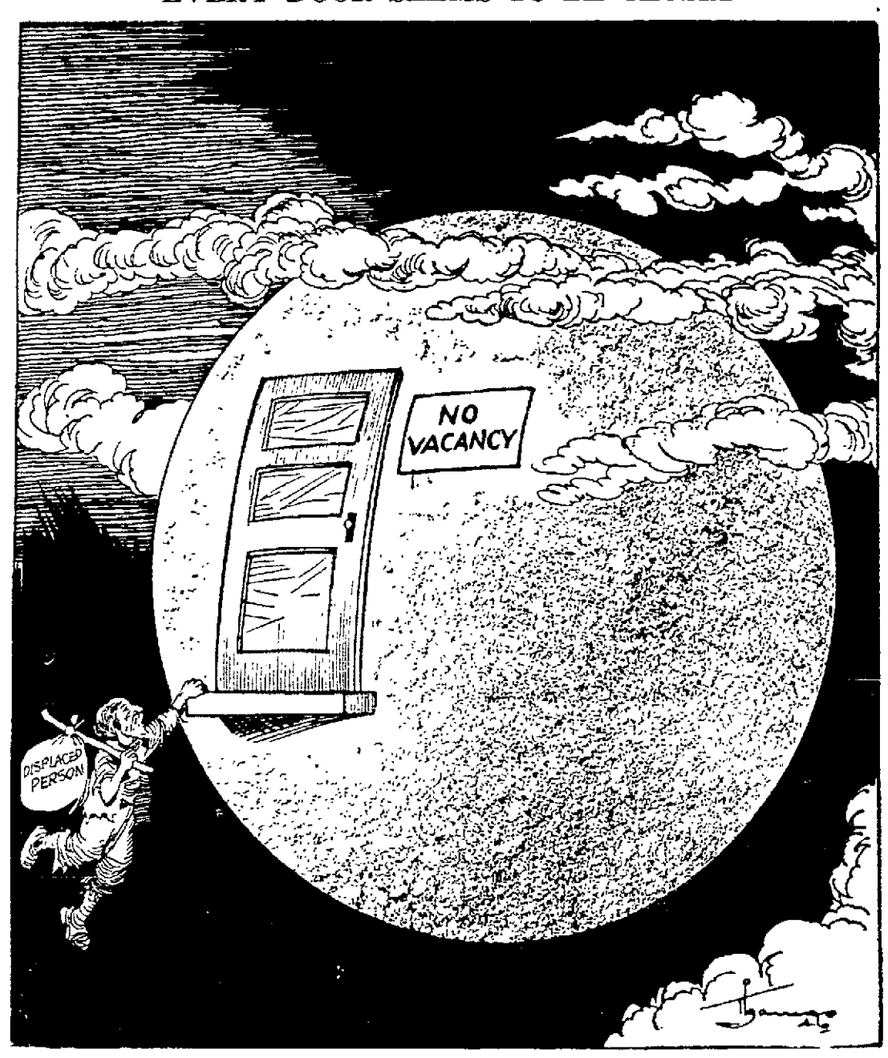
The building of ward and precinct organizations, the handling of finance and advertising, and techniques of dealing with congress are some of the other subjects. Anybody going through such a course should acquire a thorough theoretical knowledge of campaign management.

The hitch, of course, is the word "theoretical." The veteran ward worker will say that he knows all this already without taking courses. But the groups sponsoring the school, which include the American Veterans Committee, the CIO Political Action Committee and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, do not pretend to have practical experience. They propose to be actively interested in the 1946 campaign and think they might as well learn in advance how to do it right.

Noting that Senator Bilbo is being treated for what his physician calls "inflammation of the mouth," the Kansas City Star opines that this is probably an occupational disease.

Applicant for a divorce in Phoenix, Ariz., avers that his wife hit him on the head five times with an ax—the wonder being at the accuracy of count.

EVERY DOOR SEEMS TO BE CLOSED



Many Opinions Being Voiced On Recent Trends of Stock Market

By RAYMOND MOLEY

THE ONLY thing in New York which are more freely offered than stocks are theories of why stocks are being sold. The famed stock market may be a barometer of something or other, but it is hard to relate its movements with anything in the atmosphere outside.

Despite all the emphasis which the early New Deal placed upon publicity and a free unhammeled market, the mystery about recent trends in the New York stock exchange is greater than ever.

The stock market is of national interest. It is a market-place for a vast proportion of the wealth of the country. It occupies a considerable space in the press. It is the subject of unlimited conversation everywhere in the nation.

It has a great deal to do with the buying and selling psychology of millions. But despite this, nobody seems to know what governs its actions.

One theory about the recent break in the market is that a postwar recession is overdue. This was predicted, even during the war, by people who are governed by precedent. They say "It happened after the last war, didn't it?"

Another theory is that certain stocks have been split up so much that people refuse to buy them. The foreign situation is another favorite theory about the break. The news is bad, say the proponents of this theory, and dozens of stories are going around about what this or that official in Washington said about the danger of war.

This imminence-of-war theory has given rise to another theory, which is that people close to the government have been exploiting to the full the alarmist gossip in Washington about the seriousness of the international picture. This theory continues into speculation that left-wing people are working for the political advantages to be gained by a depression accompanied by large unemployment.

An opinion which puts an equally low estimate upon human nature, attributes the wave of selling to a political motive on the Republican side. It holds that big shots, who want a Republican congress, are precipitating a decline. The idea is that a depression even a little one, is bad for a party in power. The stakes for business in a Republican congress are great, for most of the important chairmanships would shift from southern and western Democrats to conservative northern and eastern Republicans. Hence, the theory holds that the aforementioned big shots would risk a lot on precipitating a crash now.

The trouble with these two political theories is that they attribute to people a degree of stupidity which is hardly justified.

The people around the administration, on the one hand, and some big-shot businessmen, on the other, have done dumb things in politics. But precipitating a bear market break to produce a political result is too much to accept. No one can foretell what a decline in stocks in August or September can do to a November election.

A real business decline might well hurt the party in power. But the American economic system is too big to be manipulated by a few people.

Two conclusions emerge from all this rumor-mongering. One is that the known facts in the Russian situation do not justify the dread hints which come out of Washington. If the facts are serious enough to justify a stock market crash, the American people are entitled to know those facts.

A second conclusion is that, despite the early professions of the Roosevelt administration to make the stock exchange an open, stable and orderly market, it is still a place of mystery of most Americans.

The reasons for its ups and downs are still dark and, being dark, are clouded in rumors and propaganda of the worst sort. The national interest is threatened by any such chaos of surmise.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, Sept. 7, 1926.

Chamber of Commerce survey showed more houses being built in Mansfield than in any previous year to accommodate families moving here.

Mayor Potts announced plans to revamp bookkeeping system in water and garbage departments.

Asphalt work of the streets in Lincoln Heights was completed and equipment moved to Maple street.

"Daddy" Allen, of Elyria, was speaker at Rotary club meeting held at Westbrook Country club, and told of crippled children's work.

Richard Poling and Winfield Hancock went to Delaware to enter Ohio Wesleyan university.

Miss Jeannette Platt went to Cincinnati to resume teaching in kindergarten.

Council granted two weeks vacation to Clerk W. W. Carter, which he planned to spend on trip to Detroit.

Old Age Mental Slump Curable.

IT IS not unusual for extreme old age to bring with it certain personality changes or a lessening of mental powers.

Formerly it was thought that such changes were due to withering or wasting of the actual tissue of the brain itself and hence they were considered incurable.

Now we know that they may be due to secondary causes, causes which may be treated and cured. In fact, according to the late Dr. Harold D. Palmer of Philadelphia, proper diagnosis and treatment will bring recovery in one out of four of these cases.

The brain like every other organ, must be supplied with food and oxygen. With this in mind, it is easy to see that any disorder which diminishes circulation to the brain will cause it to function poorly. On the other hand, the supply of blood may be adequate but the blood itself may be impoverished, carrying little oxygen because of a lessening of its red cells and distributing little in the way of essential nutritive elements because these are not supplied in the diet.

In this case, the brain is scarcely better off than if it gets no blood at all.

Thus, it is not surprising that Dr. Palmer found that anemia, or lessening of the red coloring matter in the blood, long-continued nutritional deficiency and heart failure may produce mental symptoms which are like those produced by disorders which actually damage the brain substance.

Poor nutrition occurs easily in the elderly because the lining membrane of the stomach and bowel has begun to atrophy, or waste and thus, food materials are not absorbed into the blood stream. Loss of teeth and the lack of appetite which often go with old age may also interfere with proper nutrition.

Dr. Palmer believed that many mental upsets are due to improper functioning of chemical reactions in all of the body cells and particularly in those of the brain. This he traced directly to a complete or partial lack of certain vitamins.

Other things which may play a part in producing mental breakdowns are poisoning with various drugs, the use of sedative or nerve-depressing drugs, operations, long-continued illnesses, and disturbances of the glands of internal secretion.

Thus, when mental upsets occur in the elderly, efforts should be made to correct the circulatory disturbance, poor nutrition, lack of vitamins and any chronic infections which may be present.

Rest is helpful, but prolonged bed rest should be avoided.

Dave Boone Says:

IT PUZZLES me to find people who claim they can't understand why the stock market has weak spells. What has baffled me is how it kept so strong for the past year with the world in the shape it's in.

* * *

The wonderful thing about the market has been that no bad news has been able to touch it. In fact, it has been so used to bad news that it only showed surprise and had a setback when some good news broke some place.

* * *

I figure that just now the market, like most people, has suddenly given up trying to figure out what's good and what's bad and is just passing through a well-earned dizzy spell.

When it gets to behaving as befuddled as the average American man and woman it will be time enough to get alarmed.

Daily Bible Thought

So there arose a division in the multitude because of him.—John 7:43.

'Be Strong', America Is Advised, To Promote Peace and Security

THE BRAVE new postwar world is still not one of peace and security. Downfall of the Axis left a series of vacuums in which the fierce winds of power politics and conflicting ideologies are blowing lustily. The Paris peace conference and the United Nations Security Council seemed discordant sounding boards that almost belied their names.

In the face of this mounting peacetime cacophony, some American leaders warned the nation of impending crises. A series of almost militant speeches, together with developments here and abroad, indicated that America did not intend to place all its hopes for peace solely on its prestige.

No Atomic Controls?

Robert Patterson, secretary of war, ordered a group of top army officials to formulate their defense plans "on the basis that there is and will be no adequate international control" of the atom bomb.

Fleet Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey, queried about charges by Radio Moscow that the Mediterranean cruise of an American task force was tied in with the Balkan situation and that the U. S. was trying to put on pressure, snapped: "It's nobody's damn business where we go. We will go anywhere we please . . . (to) any free water . . . anywhere in the world."

The army and navy will ask the next congress for $620,000,000 toward a five-year program totalling $1,800,000,000 for a national stockpile of critical materials.

"Be Prepared."

The senate war investigating committee, in its fifth annual report, recommends the government be prepared for any emergency. It urges creation of a highly trained armed force, equipped with the most modern weapons, stressing quality rather than quantity, mobilization plans for industry and establishment of overseas bases. It also recommends establishment of a top-drawer intelligence (spy) agency in both military and non-military fields.

Kenneth C. Royall, undersecretary of war, declared that the nation must have "continuous research and development both in offense and defense." The U. S., he said, "must be prepared to use —in defense of the nation or in assertion of international rights— any weapon not outlawed by international convention."

"It would be criminal folly for the people of the U. S. to ignore the events and possibilities in the east, or to fail to keep prepared for any eventuality," said Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, hero of Corregidor who is now Fourth army commander.

Tokyo reports said U. S. occupation troops might remain indefinitely in Japan to hold the eastern anchor of a worldwide American line against expansion of the Soviet Union and Communism.

"Another Pearl Harbor."

Six members of the house military affairs committee, touring the Far East, advocated a strong and mobile U. S. striking force in the Pacific to meet the threat of encroachment and "imminent danger of another Pearl Harbor" in Korea or Alaska.

"It is not our intention to alarm the American people," said Acting Chairman Sheridan, "but I speak the unanimous opinion of my committee when I say we have a duty to let the people know what is going on."

He proposed a striking force built around long-range, high-speed bombers based in strategic zones of the Pacific and Alaska.

"While we demobilized, one of our allies mobilized," said Rep. Sikes. "Russia is maintaining about five times the number of occupation troops, mostly in Korea, that we have."

At Home

Now It Can Be Told.

The name of Donald M. Nelson, former War Production Board chairman, has been added to the growing list of former governmental bigwigs, including Elliott Roosevelt, V. Adm. Ross T. McIntire, Frances Perkins, who have been lifting the lid in books on their wartime experiences.

Nelson charges in his book, "Arsenal of Democracy," that the army tried throughout the war to gain control of the nation's economy, virtually succeeded in 1944 and thereby hampered reconversion. He says the war department will seek to dominate America in peace as well and warns "our economic and social system will be in peril if it is controlled by military men."

In his recital of the staggering production job which was the backbone of the Allied war effort, Nelson bares a bitter conflict between WPB and the army—a conflict whose existence he denied during the years it flourished behind the scenes.

Green Sees Red Menace.

On Labor day, union leaders customarily peer into the future through a union-label telescope. This year was no exception.

Among them, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said America must "be firm with Russia now or be forced to fight her later." He said appeasement had not worked with Hitler and that it would prove equally disastrous with Stalin.

Although U. S. production and employment were at their highest peaks in history, Green said the industrial and economic outlook for America was "not too bright." Organized labor needed unity more than ever before, he said, to combat the forces of Fascism which were financing a legislative drive to deprive workers of fundamental rights.

He saw the nation on the threshold of a new atomic era. "The 40-hour week is doomed," he said. The 30-hour week is bound to come within the foreseeable future. Our standard of living will rise to heights still undreamed of.

* * *

Food Still Scarce.

World food prospects have improved somewhat but will remain serious for at least another year, the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization's second general assembly was told in Copenhagen. Delegates from 42 member nations and nine non-member countries heard that estimates of the 1946-47 world grain deficit had dropped from 10,000,000 to 8,000,000 tons.

Grain prospects have improved in southern Europe and in China. Europe's food production for the coming year is expected to be about 90 per cent of prewar levels. Rice crops in the Orient, however, will be far short of previous standards.

The United States already has earmarked a probable 400,000,000 bushels of grain and grain products from the 1946 harvest for export. The largest corn crop in American history is expected.

Abroad

Greece Restores King.

King George II will return in triumph to Athens later this month to wear the crown of Greece for the third time. The 56-year-old king first was proclaimed ruler on September 22, 1922, but reigned only 15 months before he had to make way for a republic.

In 1935, a military coup ended the republic and a farcical plebiscite arranged by Dictator Metaxas brought George back for the second time. Although beset by stormy times, he held the throne until 1941 when he fled before the invading Germans.

In London, George and his government-in-exile proclaimed the abolition of the dictatorship, re-establishment of parliamentary procedure and promised to await the result of free elections before he returned to the throne.

Stabilizing Exchange.

The 39 member governments in the International Monetary Fund will be asked this month to confer with fund officials about establishing par values for their money.

Determination of the value of each country's currency, a right each government previously reserved for itself, will be a severe test of the organization, born at Bretton Woods, N. H., two years ago, and its goal of international monetary stability.

Camille Gutt, Belgian financier who directs the $8,800,000,000 fund, said all negotiations involving currency changes would be carried out in strict secrecy to guard against the possibility of advance information leaking to speculators.

Russia, while still not a member of the fund or the international bank, can join before the Dec. 31 deadline.

Windup at Nuernberg.

The tumult and the shouting have died. After 37 weeks, the Nuernberg Palace is quiet. The 21 Nazi leaders, who ranted and raved before the international military tribunal, are back in their cells under the eyes of military guards.

In two more weeks they will return to the prisoners' dock under the white glare of the spotlights to hear the verdict. It may be one of their last strolls.

The trial was one of the longest and most involved in history. There were 216 days of hearings, 5,000,000 words of testimony transcribed into four different languages. Correspondents sent more than 10,000,000 words to newspapers throughout the world.

In Short

Called: By AFL seamen, a general strike threatening every salt-water port in U. S.

Barred: By Syria, irked at Zionist sympathy in America, oil and air negotiations with the U. S.

Set: Speed records at the national air races in Cleveland, 578 miles an hour by an Army P-80 jet plane, 373 miles an hour by a P-39 Aircobra in the Thompson 300-mile closed course race.

Submitted: By football star Thomas (Shorty) McWilliams, his resignation as West Point cadet, final action from Washington may be delayed as long as three weeks.

Quotes

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz: "I, for one, am not the slightest bit distressed about (bickering in) the peace organization. I think that's where the battles ought to take place."

Manuel Avila Camacho, president of Mexico: "We find ourselves in an age when the strong are stronger and the weak are more helpless than ever."

Farmer's Diary: "Mice of the Field."

I HEARD a low note like a bird, in the stubble of our wheat field. The clover was sparse in that particular spot, and I saw a reddish-brown creature about three inches long, with a round slender furry coat and a tail that seemed very long, in proportion and was pointed at the end.

It remained quiet long enough for me to notice accurately the amazing length of the thin gray tail, then, as I moved my foot it poised and jumped- a distance of 18 inches I followed. It jumped again, farther this time. The long tail reached far behind.

The cover was not good, and to gain better shelter, the jumping mouse moved toward the dark green foliage of the soybean field. (I had by this time recognized what it must be, although never before did I see one in my fields).

It ran on all fours where the stubble and green weeds were tangled, but when it reached an open space, it jumped again, farther than before, and made a four-point landing in a maze of small weed branches.

He was no mean acrobat. I had never seen a mouse take such flying leaps so nonchalantly. He seemed to enjoy himself and to have perfect confidence in his own ability to land anywhere. He was always on the alert, panting for action.

I did not leave him until he crossed the soybean line and was lost in the dark greenery.

* * *

ANOTHER of our native wild mice, is the deer or whitefooted mouse. Often I have seen one, in the fall, snugly housed in an abandoned small bird's nest over the top of which it has constructed a waterproof roof of moss and twigs. If an observer is patient and jars the nest a little, he may see Whitefoot peep out from under the eaves of her home—very cunning with large white ears and clean white feet, an aristocrat of mice.

If Whitefoot lives near a wheat field or one of buckwheat there will always be a store of grain cached about the premises where it can be reached in wet or snowy weather. Some years ago I observed a nest in a hollow tree, and found a full quart of clean, hulled beechnuts where Whitefoot had stored them before some storm had broken down the snag and left him homeless.

Field mice are more active after dark. Maybe that is why I never saw a jumping mouse before. It just happened that I disturbed him, as I walked. Foxes, owls, housecats, shrews, snakes and hawks are their natural enemies.

SAVINGS BANK deposits have increased 16 billion dollars in a year and the lines of customers for new cars are increasing - - - It is now obvious that things are tough all over.

* * *

According to the prophets we should be in the midst of a post-war slump now rather than working on second-round wage increases.

* * *

But when we have to contend with things like increased savings it appears that despite all efforts to stamp it out, thrift seems to be setting in again.

* * *

If reactionaries insist on providing work and other reactionaries insist on saving their wages it will be increasingly difficult to turn this into the fine liberal country it should be.

U. S. Faces Problem of Soviet Expansion.

EARLY LAST winter the United States government made the momentous decision to take the leading part in repelling the expansion of the Soviet empire. As a result we are now engaged in a world-wide diplomatic struggle of the utmost gravity. We must realize that it cannot be won and that it may lead to a catastrophic war unless the diplomatic campaign is planned on a correct appraisal of what it is essential to accomplish and of the power and influence we can muster in order to accomplish it.

Our resources, our man power, our political and moral influence are considerable. But they are not unlimited. And it is as necessary now as it was during the war to conserve and concentrate our efforts for a decision on the principal issues rather than to let them be dispersed in secondary theaters.

The basic question is one of high strategy: Whether the United States shall deal with the Soviet Union directly or indirectly. This is essentially the same question, though obviously in very different form, which Roosevelt, Leahy, Marshall and King faced when they had to decide whether to seek a decision first in Europe or in the Pacific, and then in each theater whether to conduct many minor peripheral campaigns or one central campaign.

Near East Is Point.

The direct American policy would be to build up American power at a selected point where, if war comes, the Soviet Union, would from the outset be on the defensive. That point is manifestly in the eastern Mediterranean in the direction of the Black Sea. For at that point American sea and air power can be brought within reach of the vital center of Russia, and can, therefore, most surely counteract the striking power of the Red army.

There it would be feasible for the United States, employing the kind of force with which we are best equipped, to redress the balance of power which has been radically upset by the demobilization of the western land armies, by the enfeeblement of Europe, by the disunity of China, and by the reorganization of the British empire.

Any policy designed to check the expansion of a mighty world power entails grave risks, and the direct policy certainly entails grave risks. But if it is adopted openly, and is explained clearly to the world, and is applied resolutely, it can lead us back to direct negotiations with the Kremlin on the great questions of power which now divide us.

They are whether Germany is to be neutralized and pacified or is to be sought as an ally; whether the British Empire is to be transformed peaceably or dissolved violently, whether the civil war in China is to become an international war.

Direct Action Has Risks.

To confront Russia directly with a concentration of American power under American command is one thing. It is quite another thing to confront Russia with dispersed American power in the service of a heterogeneous collection of unstable governments and of contending parties and factions which happen to be opposed to the Soviet Union.

Direct action involves the risk of how the Russians will react. But indirect action, which means reinforcing, subsidizing and seconding the undisciplined members of a loose coalition, entails the additional risk that we cannot determine what our allies, partners and proteges will do, as we lend them our support, with the power which we have put at their disposal.

A policy of lend-leasing American power and influence to an anti-Soviet coalition means that we do not deal directly with Moscow but indirectly via London, Chungking, Rome, Athens, Cairo and Tehran.

This policy, which entrusts to others the keys to peace and war, is bound to arouse the maximum resistance of the Soviet Union. It will see it as the organization of a coalition war. And yet for us it offers no prospect of a reasonably prompt decision. For it will take a long time to restore Europe, unify China and reorganize the British empire.

Avoid Strategic Mistake.

Our object in checking the expansion of the Soviet power is to give Europe, China and the British empire the time, the freedom from interference, and the opportunity, to solve their enormously complicated problems. The coalition policy puts the cart before the horse. It is an attempt to solve their problems in order to check the Soviet expansion. The real need, however, is to check the Soviet expansion in order that their problems, which invite the expansion, may be settled peaceably.

It is most important, I submit, that in conducting this great campaign we do not make the fatal strategic mistake, which we avoided during the war, of mortgaging our power and exhausting our strength in minor theaters where no decision of the main issues can be had. The pressure for support is persistent, strong and appealing.

We must not, however, confuse our interest in co-operating with free men to construct a free world with the immediate and urgent problem of world politics, which is to halt the expansion of the Soviet empire and to bring about a negotiated settlement of the conflict of power. Since this is a problem of power, we cannot delegate it to our friends, partners and allies, but must deal with it ourselves. We alone are strong enough to deal with the problem; let us pray that we shall be wise enough.

The undertaking is so serious that we do not dare to disperse our effort. We must not lose sight of the main objective. We must not become entangled in remote or indirect disputes. Or we shall be sucked from one bad situation into another, until at last there is no way out except a war of annihilation.

Books for the Younger Set

It is fun to open the door when the bell rings. It may be someone we know or it may be a stranger. It may even be a surprise. Peter was waiting for a surprise in PETER OPENS THE DOOR by Roberta Whitehead, a new book for little children. All day long Peter ran to the door every time he heard a noise. Many people came—the milkman, the postman, the trashman and the coal man. Last of all came—a surprise.

A big book for little children is THE LITTLE DUCK WHO LOVED THE RAIN by Emilie Wiedenbeck. He was a pretty little yellow duck very happy in his own little pond. One summer the sun shone and shone and dried up the little pond and the little duck was very sad. He walked and walked to try to find some rain. He asked a little boy and he asked a little girl but they could not tell him where to find some rain. At last a policeman told him where to go and little duck found a place where the rain never stopped and was happy again.

JOHNNY COTTONTAIL by Margaret Friskey is the story of a rabbit who was lonely until he found four little baby rabbits who had no home. He took them home, fed them and watched them grow. He taught them the things they should know, most of all he told them never, never to go to the farmer's garden because the dog would chase them. Pete ran away, right to the farmer's garden, the dog did chase him, but Pete got away. The poor dog lost one of his legs, Johnny helped him to find it. Then they were all friends and the dog let the rabbits go into the garden.

GM PRESIDENT DEMANDS NEW PRICE BOOSTS

Blames Lag in Production on Government's Failure to Wage-Price Formula.

DETROIT —(U.P.)— General Motors corporation, world's largest motor car manufacturer, openly blames government wage - price policy for lagging industrial production and indicates it will seek new price boosts of $100 on each of its cars.

GM President C. E. Wilson charged in a report to the press that the government's failure to set up a workable wage - price formula was responsible for industry's lack of sustained production.

At the same time Wilson:

Charged General Motors was discriminated against by the OPA in previous price increases and intimated the corporation would ask for new relief.

Foresaw another wave of wage strikes which he said would reduce the potential market for new cars and other commodities.

Forecast increasing shortages of basic raw materials unless the government removed "restrictive controls" on resources and imports.

But predicted the auto industry would attain its goal of producing cars and trucks at an annual rate of 6,000,000 by a year from now or at least by January, 1948.

Wilson declared that the country should have a good wage-price policy and stick to it. He said "one of the main faults of the government was its failure to recognize the necessity of controlling wages from the beginning."

Another important stumbling block in reaching peak output, Wilson said, was reduced worker efficiency. He attributed it to a lack of experience, trebled absenteeism and a "restlessness" resulting from the war.

Current labor efficiency was about 80 per cent of pre-war levels, he said.

Wilson said General Motors hoped to increase production during September and October to 20 per cent over the August rate of 101,278 passenger cars. He said output then would level off at about the October rate for the remainder of the year.

Thieves Get $30 In Tiro Robbery

TIRO—Thieves Thursday entered the Tiro Grain and Supply company elevator and stole approximately $30 from the cash drawer, Robert Eckstein, manager who made the discovery at 7 a. m., reported to Sheriff Ralph Schreck this morning.

Failing in their attempt to open the safe, the yeggs ransacked office drawers, strewing papers about the premises, Eckstein said.

Entry was probably gained through a small door through which feed is placed for grinding, the same method employed by robbers who entered the New Washington elevator several weeks ago, it was reported.

Sheriff Schreck's office is conducting an investigation.

Jesus and Sincerity of Speech — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 20: 16; 23:1; Psalm 15: 1-5; Proverbs 26: 18-28; Matthew 5: 33-37; 23: 16-22; 26: 69-75; Acts 4: 13-21, 23.

"Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor," is one of the ten commandments, to which Moses adds: "Thou shalt not raise a false report: put not thine hand with the wicked to be an unrighteous witness."

In naming those who should abide by His tabernacle, the Lord included: "He that putteth not out his money to usury, nor taketh reward against the innocent. He that doeth these things shall never be moved."

Proverbs tell us: "As a mad man who casteth firebrands, arrows and death, so is the man that deceiveth his neighbor and saith, Am not I in sport? . A lying tongue hateth those that are afflicted by it."

Peter and John appearing before Sanhedrin are being told to quit teaching in the name of Jesus, replied whether "it be right in the sight of God to hearken unto you more than God, judge ye."

NEW TEACHER TO HAVE CHARGE OF BIBLE STUDY

Miss Ruth Cowley to Teach In Third, Fourth Grades In Mansfield Schools.

Beginning Monday, third and fourth graders in Mansfield public schools will be taught Bible by Miss Ruth Cowley of Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, who replaces Mrs. Donald Visscher who resigned last spring. Miss Cowley will teach under the supervision of the Mansfield Council of Religious Education.

Working with the principals of all public grade schools, she plans to extend the course into junior high schools next year with Mrs. Mary James continuing to teach and to assist her in the fifth and sixth grades.

Miss Cowley, formerly director of religious education in the Willow Run, Mich., Community church, gained experience in week day church school teaching in Chicago.

She holds a degree in religious education from the Baptist Missionary training school there, and has completed some graduate work at Hartford, Conn, seminary.

CAR ACCIDENTS

Bucyrus Mishaps Hike Total For the Year to 152.

BUCYRUS — Two automobile accidents Thursday boosted the total to date this year to 152 and brought the total for the first five days of September to nine.

Investigated by the police, the accidents Thursday involved a light truck operated by Otto F. Pfeifer, Plymouth street, and a car driven by Warren Starlin, Woodlawn avenue. The mishap occurred as Pfeifer backed from a drive on Whetsone street into the path of the Starlin car, police said.

The second accident involved a car operated by Harold W. Sylva of Detroit, and one belonging to A. I. Cullen of Bucyrus. The fender of the Cullen car was caught by the Detroit car as the latter made a turn on Washington square.

Continuing the campaign for safer driving, police picked up William C. Beard of Upper Sandusky, for speeding and going through an intersection without stopping. He gave bond for his appearance in police court.

Also tagged by police for failing to stop at intersections were O. F. Steiger of Bucyrus, and Mrs. Ruth Anderson of Cincinnati. Each paid $2 fines.

Total arrests since the safety campaign opened three weeks ago reached 135 today.

60,135 Watch Browns Crush Miami

Hal Clawson

With Mansfield high's opening football game only six days away, there's one perplexing problem still facing the high school athletic association.

That's the need of a few thousand more seats.

Harold Arlin, president of the association, has been doing plenty of inquiring as to where the temporary seats can be rented or purchased.

Present capacity of the stadium is roughly 4,000 for the east and west stands. Broken down, there are about 2,300 reserved seats for the fans, another thousand is being held for the high school students while 600 seats on the east stands will be allotted visiting teams.

* * *

High school officials hope to do something about providing fans with seating at the north and south ends of the field. But finding the necessary bleachers is providing the men with more than a few headaches.

* * *

Any individual or group who has any portable bleachers or who may know where the same may be found are asked to get in touch with Mr. Arlin or any of the high school officials.

Biggest of the "big" problems facing the gridiron bosses is that of what to do with the fans who will be jamming the stadium for the Massillon game.

* * *

Several coaches and officials from nearby towns were on hand here Thursday night for the grid clinic sponsored by the Tyger club.

One of the tutors was Dwight Bumpus, now coach at Mt. Vernon. Dwight was on hand to pick up some info from his old mentor, Paul Snyder.

The two spent considerable time in the coaches dressing room following the clinic discussing football. Bumpus will be making his debut as Yellowjacket coach.

Other coaches who were here included Pat Pasini, Kenyon college; Jeff DeHaven, Madison high; Ike Nussebaum. Bucyrus, and Bob Sheffer, former Galion high coach.

Giants Cop OSL Crown

(By Associated Press)

The Springfield Giants clinched the Ohio State League pennant Friday night with an 11-8 victory over the Middletown Reds, last year's champs.

Third Baseman Joe Pattison won the game with a grand slam homer that broke a 7-7 tie in the ninth after batting in three other runs on two triples and a single in earlier frames.

The second-place Zanesville Dodgers lost at Marion 10-6 to fall three and one-half games behind the Giants, who have two more games to play while Zanesville finishes with a three-game series at Lima.

* * *

The Dayton Indians profited by Middletown's loss with a 2-1 victory over Richmond, thereby cementing the Reds in the cellar.

Newark romped the bases for more than three hours at Lima with a 25-hit barrage that included nine doubles and a triple and routed three Lima hurlers 20-5. By winning Newark moved to within a game of third-place Richmond.

The league's annual post season playoff series will get underway Tuesday, President Frank M. Colley announcer. By the season's end Sunday, Newark and Richmond may have decided their scrap for third place.

Buckeyes In Secret Practice

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Coach Paul Bixler gave his Ohio State football players this morning off and slated scrimmage for an afternoon session closed to visitors.

The afternoon workout was expected to be the heaviest contact drill the Bucks have had in two weeks of practice, but Bixler said he intended to give each boy only about 20 minutes of actual playing and would keep any injured gridders out of all the rough stuff. After last Saturday's initial scrimmage, several top players were sidelined for a few days with minor injuries.

The squad of 64 varsity and about 44 junior varsity men will continue two-hour morning and afternoon practice sessions in the next two weeks and go into single afternoon drills for the week preceding the opener against Missouri here Sept. 28.

* * *

While the backfielders, as usual, attracted most of the attention, the 1946 scarlet line was shaping up in a way that pleased Bixler. The forward wall has strength and depth, and there's an experienced man for each post.

* * *

At this early stage the leading line contenders are:

Center—Sophomore Tony Adamle of Cleveland, Howard Duncan of Lakewood and Chuck Renner of Akron.

Guards—Hal Dean of Wooster, Bob Jabbusch of Elyria, Bob McGinnis of Wyoming, Wilbur Schneider of Gahanna, Ray Dipierro of Toledo and Bob Gaudio of Cleveland.

Tackles—Chuck Csuri of Cleveland, Warren Amling of Pana, Ill., Brenton Kirk of New Philadelphia, Forrest Hamilton of Cleveland, Chuck Fazio of Marion, Mike Perrotti of Cleveland, Jack Wilson of Xenia and Dick O'Hanlon of East Liverpool.

Ends: Cy Souders of Bucyrus, Traian Dendiu of Campbell, Fred (Curly) Morrison of Columbus and Ernie Parks of Canton.

After Third Win Sunday

Merle Leedy will be after his third straight triumph over the Lucas Merchants here tomorrow afternoon at Liberty park.

The Mansfield Grays' star hurler holds two victories shutting the Merchants out, 5-0, early in the year and then gained a 16-9 victory in a county tournament contest here last Sunday.

Manager Red Hamman feels certain that Leedy can handcuff the visitors again so has nominated the righthander for the mound stint.

* * *

Preceding this game which will start at 3 p. m. will be a benefit title between the local American Legion junior nine and Post 72 club starting at 1 p. m.

* * *

All money collected during this game will go to Elaine Mash who suffered a fractured jaw during a junior Legion game several weeks ago.

Manager Dewey Durant will import "Lefty" Cochran from Fredericktown for tomorrow's game.

Don Smith was to chuck for the local juniors this afternoon when they meet the Loudonville juniors as the feature athletic contest of the Flxible company picnic at Loudonville.

BAT FOR OWENS

SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—(INS)—A chamber of commerce sponsored drive for the reinstatement of Mickey Owen, banned former Brooklyn Dodger catcher, into organized baseball, was under way today in Springfield and other Ozark town.

Indians to Open Home Stand Against Browns

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The weary Cleveland Indians, in sixth place but on home ground for the first time in 19 games, opened a three-game series with the St. Louis Browns in League park today—hoping for the best.

The Tribe yesterday absorbed a 9-0 defeat from the Detroit Tigers in the finale of an around-the-circuit road trip which produced only four wins. Today's mound chores went to Allie Reynolds for the Indians and Vance Kramer for the Browns.

Rapid Robert Feller, who has been more robot than rapid while dropping six of his last seven starts, will pitch the first game of Sunday's doubleheader.

Eagles, Books Play 5-5 Tie

SHELBY—The Eagles and Shelby Salesbook company tied 5 to 5 in the first of a three game series to determine the championship of the Shelby Softball league played Friday night on the waterworks diamond.

The game will be replayed Monday night and the second of the series played Wednesday night. All of the games are scheduled for 5:30 p. m.

The Eagles, second half winners, took the lead 3 to 2 at the end of the first inning, but the Salesbook first half winners, rallied to tie up the score, 5 to 5, at the end of the second inning.

The game was called in the sixth inning by Umpire Jim Yarman because of darkness.

Charles Williams, Shelby high school cage and baseball coach was on the mound for the Salesbook and Eddie Griffeth pitched for the Eagles.

Parker Ousted By Tom Brown

FOREST HILLS—(AP)—Two of Uncle Sam's Davis cup stalwarts have been swatted right out of the national tennis championships the past two days, and in their places as the big tournament reached the semi-finals today were a couple of belting young Californians who might be ruling the roost a year from now.

Gone, specifically, were Frankie Parker, champion of the past two years, and Billy Talbert, who chased him to the wire on each occasion. Talbert got the post-war axe first, at the hands of Bob Falkenburg, the University of Southern California youngster. Parker got it yesterday from Tom Brown, jr., of San Francisco.

Brown's semi-final opponent today was Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, who is seeded third, and Falkenburg is matched against Jack Kramer, seeded second. The finals will be played tomorrow.

Colonels Win AA Pennant

(By Associated Press)

The American Association pennant returned to Louisville today for the first time since 1930 and it was the seventh flag won by the Colonels in the 44-year history of the Triple A league.

After last night's games the four teams to compete in the playoffs after the end of the regular season schedule season were definitely known. They are Louisville, Indianapolis, St. Paul and Minneapolis, which will finish in that order.

* * *

The Colonels last night clinched first place with a 7-6 victory over Toledo in 10 innings, leaving them 3½ games in front of Indianapolis with only three games left to play.

* * *

Indianapolis defeated Columbus 3-1.

Minneapolis swept its series with Milwaukee by taking the finale 4-1.

Third-place St. Paul won a doubleheader from Kansas City, beating the Blues 2-1 and 13-1.

Rams Repeat Win Over Redskins

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— The home town boys delivered with a bang as the National League champion Rams hung up a rousing 16-11 defeat on the Washington Redskins last night in an exhibition game that was nearly a replay of their title contest last fall.

After former UCLA Quarterback Bob Waterfield had run, kicked and passed the Rams to 13 points, Bob DeLauer, center from Southern California, came in and booted a dead-center field goal from 45 yards out to save the night for the Rams.

Hogan's Absence Suits Quartet

CHICAGO—(AP)—Ben Hogan is missing from George S. May's "world championship" tourney which started today at Tam O'Shanter course, but the absence of golf's golden boy suited Byron Nelson, Sammy Snead, Lloyd Mangrum and Herman Barron just dandy.

That quartet will tangle over 36 holes in promoter May's $10,000 winner-take-all medal play test, playing 18 holes today and 18 tomorrow over Tam's par-72, 6760-yard course.

Well-Coached Eleven Scores Five Markers

By FRITZ HOWELL

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The All-America Football conference in its first and only game had something today the National loop couldn't claim after 25 years of operation—a 60,000 crowd of paid customers at a regularly-scheduled, non-exhibition contest.

Lifting the lid off the new professional loop, which not too long ago was accused of "not even having a football," the Cleveland Browns and the Miami Seahawks last night attracted 60,135 coatless, perspiring fans to the lakefront stadium.

Miami, befuddled from the start by the all-around tactics of the tightly-coached Browns, wound up with a total gain of only 22 yards through the air and on the ground, while the Clevelanders amassed 314 yards, five touchdowns, five extra points and three field goals.

* * *

Lou Groza, a place-kicking machine, contributed the extra points and field goals for 14 points to top the team in scoring, but he was aided materially in the scoring column by five touchdown toters.

* * *

Mac Speedie, former Utah end, snatched a 16-yard pass from Cliff Lewis, formerly of Duke, for the opening marker in the first three minutes. Otto Graham, Northwestern's All-America, tossed 37 yards to Ohio State's Dante Lavelli for the second. Tom Colella, former Cleveland Ram of the National football loop, scampered 50 yards for the third; Don Greenwood of Illinois picked up a teammate's fumble and went a yard for the fourth, and Ray Terrell of Mississippi plucked a desperation aerial from the atmosphere in the final minute to convert the interception into an 80-yard touchdown run for the final marker.

In between that splurge of point-gathering, Groza booted five points after touchdown, and kicked three-pointers from the 14, 12 and 15-yard lines.

Miami failed to threaten at any stage, reaching its own 28-yard line in the first session, Cleveland's 47 in the second and third, and the Browns' 45 in the final attack after a penalty. But not once did anyone expect the southern squad to score, and it didn't.

Until last night's crowd record went into the professional books, the record was held by a New York-Washington Polo Grounds contest of several years ago in the National league.

Reeves Again Pistol Champ

CAMP PERRY, O.—(AP)—Harry Reeves of the Detroit police department won his third consecutive national pistol championship over this National Guard range yesterday.

Reeves, with the 22, 38 and 45 caliber pistols, hung up a record of 2.588 of 2.700, highest mark ever attained in the national title race. No one was close as he wrapped up the laurels for the third straight time

* * *

In the national rifle classification, G. Wayne Moore, 39-year-old auto body repairman from Washington, Pa., upset the dope by amassing a 3,184 of 3,200 aggregate over eight matches to shut out a host of highly-favored opponents.

* * *

Arthur Cook, 18, of Washingtn, D. C., grabbed the junior title with a four-match aggregate of 1,582 of 1,600.

Adelaide McCord of Sewickley, Pa., won the women's national rifle championship with 3,166 of 3,200.

ORDINANCE NO. 46-171

By Mr. Anglin

Determining to proceed with the improvement of Hoffman avenue from Park avenue west to the south end of the street by resurfacing with some suitable material.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MANSFIELD, STATE OF OHIO: three-fourths of all members elected thereto concurring:

Section 1: That it is hereby determined to proceed with the improvement of Hoffman avenue from Park avenue west to the south end of the street by resurfacing with some suitable material, in accordance with resolution No. 46-165 passed August 6, 1946, and in accordance with plans, specifications, estimates and profiles heretofore approved and now on file in the office of the Director of Public Service.

Section 2: That the whole cost of said improvement, less 50 per cent shall be assessed by the foot front upon the following described lots and lands, to-wit: all lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement, which lots and lands are hereby determined to be specially benefitted by said improvement; and the cost of said improvement shall include the expense of preliminary and other surveys, the printing and publishing of notices, resolutions and ordinances required and the serving of said notices, the cost of construction together with interest on notes and bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of deferred assessments, and all other necessary expenditures.

Section 3: That the assessments to be levied shall be paid in 3 annual installments with interest on deferred payments at the same rate as shall be borne by the bonds to be issued in anticipation of the collection thereof; provided that the owner of any property assessed may at his option pay such assessment in cash within 30 days after the passage of the assessing ordinance.

Section 4: That bonds of the City of Mansfield, Ohio, shall be issued in anticipation of the collection of assessments by installments and in an amount equal thereto.

Section 5: That the remainder of said improvement not assessed, including the cost of intersections, etc., shall be paid out of a fund which is herewith appropriated from the General fund in the sum of $110.00 dollars.

Section 6: That the Director of Public Service be and he hereby is authorized and directed as soon as funds therefore are available to make and execute a contract for said improvement with the lowest and best bidder after advertisement according to law.

Section 7: That this ordinance shall take effect and be in full force from and after the earliest time allowed by law.

Passed Sept. 3, 1946.

It's Cardinals' Slugging vs. Dodgers' Pitching In Stretch

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

It's St. Louis slugging against Brooklyn pitching as the front-running Cardinals and runner-up Dodgers race down the stretch two and a half games apart in a dazzling September drive for the National league pennant.

Each team has won six of seven games since Sept. 1, with the Cards relying up their punch to offset spotty pitching while the Dodgers have been getting splendid hurling to atone for their ineptitude at the plate.

The Cards gave a perfect example last night of the way they've been playing in recent days when they outslugged the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-6 in a free-hitting game at Sportsman's park A total of 31 hits were made by both teams, 16 by the Cards including a three-run homer by Terry Moore in the fourth inning which decided the game.

Moore's four-bagger was the seventh hit by the Redbirds in their last seven games which saw St. Louis collect 45 runs on 84 hits. Only two St. Louis pitchers went the route during that time as the opposition garnered 27 runs.

* * *

On the other hand, the Dodgers have made but 22 runs on 59 hits in their last seven games, but they've limited the opposition to only 14 runs.

* * *

In the only other National league game, the Giants, aided by three home runs,

King of Rats Threatens Blackball of Mansfield

(The city editor had looked just as confused when I asked him "how to contact a rat." When he reached for a phone book, I left The problem, apparently, was mine.)

* * *

Rats in Mansfield, I understood, had no offices. They were all over the blamed city Hadn't Health Commissioner W. B. Wild said so? Rats shouldn't be hard to find, then, I figured. But where to begin first, that was still the problem

So I wandered about town for awhile, trying to figure out some avenue of approach and, incidentally, trying to dope out just what questions I'd put to my "interviewee."

I was nervous. I didn't want to flub this, my first big opportunity at rat interviewing. Then, too, what with thousands of Mansfielders waiting on Mr. Rat's very words.

I envisioned the next day's headlines.

"Up Front With Mine"

So I settled on the dirtiest looking building in town There, I said to myself—there is where I'll find me a rat.

* * *

I walked through a side door and was immediately confronted by a watchman.

"I've come to interview a rat on the extermination situation," I said boldly

He looked me up and down. His eyes were wide with amazement as he hurried off, looking at me, still, over his shoulder. He jammed his key into a time clock, spat nervously on the floor and then, still ogling me wide-eyed, disappeared down the hall.

"The guy must be nuts," I thought. I began poking about some rubbish piled against the far well.

I jotted down a description of the rubbish—color stuff for my story, I thought and then it happened Honest?!

* *

I heard a subdued "Psssst" from the far end of the rubbish pile and turned quickly, dropping my pad.

"Hey, doc, come 'ere"

The voice sounded for all the world like Bugs Bunny. I snatched up my pad, stumbled over some of the rubbish and made my way to the end of the pile

So help me, it was a rat! A big, grey, long-tailed character.

Looking nervously from side-to-side and then clear back over his shoulder, he cupped his hand to his mouth and said

"I hear ya wanna interview a rat on this here extoimination business"

The poor character was actually sweating and panting. Under one arm was a copy of "Life Can Be Beautiful"

"Yeah" I said poising my pencil, ready to jot down his furtive utterances. "My paper wants to get a statement from one of you fellows on what you think of the current stamping out campaign."

Nervously he licked his lips, looked again from side-to-side, and then motioned me to follow him.

On my knees I crawled through the opening against which my informer had been cringing when I first spied him. The smell definitely didn't remind me of Channel No. 9.

As we passed into the darkened interior I noticed he was limping. Also, his coat was filthy and it was torn in spots. A grimy card protruding from his pocket showed that he had an appointment for a blood transfusion next Tuesday.

* * *

He limped across another room and stood in front of a massive door Then returned to me and said: 'I'm sorry, but youse'll have ta turn your backs" He was breathing heavily

I, of course, complied—anything for a story.

As I waited I heard a buzzer sound, seemingly off in the distance, behind the door. Then there was a clanging sound and my informer mumbled:

"It's OK, Mike. It's me. Open up."

He told me I could turn around then and the giant heavy door swung open He entered first, shuffling because of his game leg

Ambling over to a chair, my informer plunked down exhausted. "Mike" was standing at attention Evidently, I thought, I've contacted the big cheese of Ratdom.

* * *

"Now, where was we?" he asked wearily, tossing his copy of "Life Can Be Beautiful" onto a table which was piled high with garbage empty cans and a couple of well gnawed ears of corn

"I want a statement," I reminded

My informer rubbed his brow. His chin was on his chest. Then he looked up His eyes were bloodshot tired-looking

"Son," he said, "you can quote me as saying we've got our backs against the garbage cans."

"Hmmm," I said, jotting in my pad "So it's that bad, huh?"

"Bad!" he shouted "Why do you know we've had to make so blasted many strategic withdrawals in the last two weeks that now we're advancin'?" He seemed bitter

"Listen, brother, when it comes to strategic withdrawals ol' Uncle Adolph had nuttin' on us," he continued.

"We're dyin' like rats . . . er I mean . . . flies down here. Ain't youse guys heard nuttin' about humane treatmint or animals. WE'RE animals. Just remember that!"

* * *

I interrupted. "But you people don't contribute anything to the world at large. All you do is eat and destroy."

I was getting argumentative.

"Statistics show that you rats destroy about $7.25 per person, per year in the United States," I reminded, showing off how I had read the latest issue of the department of interior's rat control booklet.

"Oh, rats, er I mean, mice," my informer continued. "Another one of these blasted government reports. You don't read THOSE things, do you? Lies, LIES! Nothing but lies," he shouted

"But what about the extermination campaign," I said, trying to steer the conversation back to where it belonged. "You say things are pretty rough, huh?"

My informer scratched a bit, flicked a wood chip from his coat and answered: "You can put this in your paper, if things get much worse we're gonna black-ball this town at the next NRPA meeting.

"NRPA?" I asked

"Yeah, blast it, at the next meeting of the National Rat Protective association. This burg'll get the biggest, roundest blackball ever tossed."

My informer grinned, seemingly pleased with his decision

I stifled a smile, slapped shut my note-book. "Well, this oughta make a pretty good story tomorrow," I said. (If anybody'll believe me, I thought to myself)

As the door clanged shut behind me and I crawled out through the opening to the hall again I came face-to-face with the watchman. He'd been peering into the hole.

He quickly turned and hurried off again still looking at me over his shoulder with those wide eyes.

According to a nation-wide survey by the LADIES' HOME JOURNAL ON THE QUESTION:

"What Makes People Happy?"

THE FOLLOWING FACT CAME TO LIGHT

"Happy people are religious people! The very happiest people found in the entire survey—those who meet every important test of happiness—go to church more often and are far more likely to look to religion for comfort and help than the rest of the population. This is so marked that the chances of being happy and not religious are pretty slim."

Hal Boyle — Globe-Jotting

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
(For Hal Boyle)

BERLIN —(AP)—Every Friday afternoon between 50,000 and 60,000 Berlin youngsters, aged six to 18, have a date with the "AMI" soldiers.

At 1:30 p. m. they swarm onto 24 playing fields in the American sector of the city for an afternoon of supervised play. They are instructed by hundreds of American soldiers who regard themselves as teachers of democracy as well as sports coaches and their task as one of the most constructive contributions to the Allied occupation.

The Berlin program—unmatched by any other occupying power—is part of a German youth activities program launched several weeks ago by Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, theater commander, with this pronouncement:

"This is an extremely important job, perhaps more important than any other one job we can do today. Other things we must do, such as denazification and de-industrialization of Germany, are negative. This is a positive action."

Take it from the man who heads the program, it's also a lot of fun. He is Maj. Emmette O. Huff, tall, soft-spoken, 40-year-old southerner, whose wife and daughter live at Greenwood, S. C. Huff, who weighs a trim 190 pounds, still is about as rugged and certainly as enthusiastic as when he played guard and tackle at the University of Georgia (1925-27) and served as line coach at the University of Miami (1934-36).

* * *

Major Huff, athletic officer of special services at the U. S. Army's Berlin district headquarters, has the soldiers of 30 troop units working in his sports program. This was started Aug. 15 with the cooperation of German officials from each borough in the American sector.

* * *

With GI's as their coaches and teammates, the German boys and girls were given a program of baseball, softball, tennis, volleyball, horseshoe pitching, badminton and ping pong. The youngest children play group games with prizes for the winners.

The U. S. Army supplied loads of athletic equipment, including 1,666 baseball bats, 540 baseball gloves, 202 volleyballs, 293 footballs and scores of tennis racquets, soccer balls, basketballs and other miscellany.

There had been organized baseball schools for months on some Berlin fields. These were started after German youngsters had hung around GI fields, chasing fungoes and carrying bats for the players. When supervised play started, attendance boomed. Kids are welcome from the Russian, British and French sectors of the city and baseball's fame is spreading around the town.

"The kids are thirsty for it," Huff says. "It's been a long time since they've had any opportunity for competitive play, and they like the friendly, big-brother attitude of our soldiers. They are catching on well to American games, particularly softball. We also expect to give them American football, but this will have hard going against soccer.

"Tactical troops aiding in the program also seem to enjoy participation. Personally, I think it's one of the most important things we can do in the occupation. We give the kids fun and combat juvenile delinquency. We not only combat mischief, but show the youth our way of life through sports."

COURT STATES WAR HERO TO GET FREEDOM

OSR Prisoner Wins Appeal; Release Must Await Official Papers.

authority exists only "during such probationary period."

The appeals court decision was based on the basic idea that any court shall act and speak from its official journal only. In this case, the Stark county court's journal had entirely ignored Burson's standing as a probationer and indicated no violation of the terms of his probation until after the probation period had expired.

Court Here Ruled.

The case was brought into Richland county common pleas court as the court in whose jurisdiction the OSR is located.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, while noting that "vagaries of the probation officer" in supervising Burson, and the veteran's own outstanding military service, made a strong case for the ex-soldier, nevertheless had refused the writ of habeas corpus.

He cited Ohio law which specifically states:

"If, during such (probationary) period, the probationer absconds or otherwise absents himself from the jurisdiction of the court without permission from the probation department, or the court, to do so, the probation period shall cease to run until such time as he is brought before the court for its further action."

Judge Barthlemeh, likewise, recognized Burson's valiant service in the army and in consideration of it extended his probation period instead of sentencing him immediately to OSR when the veteran returned to Canton after his army service.

It was after Burson allegedly violated that extended probation period by being convicted of intoxication that Judge Barthlemeh revoked it entirely and sentenced him to OSR.

Judges of the appeals court are Charles W. Montgomery of Newark, Robert B. Putnam of Millersburg, and Clyde C. Sherick of Ashland.

Society Schedules Series of Meetings for Photographers

The first in a series of talks for the amateur who enjoys taking snapshots will be held at 8 p. m. next Tuesday in Room 401, Farmers Bank building, it was announced today by Giles Hamilton, vice president of the Mansfield Photographic society.

The initial talk will be given by Joe Donahue of Fotocraft studios. His subject will be "How to Take Better Snapshots."

The series of talks will continue throughout the winter months and are open at no charge to any amateur.

For those who wish more advanced instruction a separate course will be made available to members of the society. Memberships are open to the public and there are no entrance requirements other than an interest in photography.

The club meets on the second and fourth Tuesdays in each month with one meeting devoted to instruction and the other being a showing of prints made by members and judging of their merits by Mike Leggett.

At Tuesday's meeting, Al Schindler, president of the society, and Don Burger, secretary, will report an availability of Army and Navy Photographic Manuals for individual members.

AUTO ACCIDENT VICTIMS BETTER

Widow and Daughter of Dr. Onstott Out of Danger.

Mrs. Robert H. Onstott, the former Miss Wilma James of Mansfield and her eight-year-old daughter, were reported "out of danger" in a San Francisco hospital today. They are recovering of injuries suffered in an auto accident Wednesday which took the life of their husband and father, Dr. Onstott.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. James, 560 West Fourth street, parents of the injured woman, said they received a telegram from their daughter last night reporting that both she and her daughter were improving.

Brief funeral rites for Dr. Onstott, 40, were scheduled for 2 p. m. today at the Marine hospital in San Francisco. The body of the physician, who recently returned with his family from the Hawaiian Islands where he served as health commissioner for three years, will be removed to his home in Denver, Colo., for funeral services and burial Monday.

The fatal accident occurred near Auburn, Calif., when Dr. Onstott's car crashed into a road grader which was reported to have turned across the highway in front of the car.

The family was enroute to Mansfield to spend a few days with Mrs. Onstott's parents before going to Washington, D. C.

MRS. HOFF DIES

Suffered Broken Hip In Fall Ten Days Ago.

Mrs. Sofia Hoff, 78, R. D. 1, widow of Michael Hoff, died early today in General hospital. She suffered a broken hip in a fall in her home ten days ago.

Born in Hungary, July 9, 1868, she came to Mansfield in 1904. For 34 years, the family have resided in Franklin township.

She leaves a son, John G. Hoff, with whom she made her home; two grandsons, John M., and Joseph M. Hoff, one granddaughter, Mrs. R. G. Sowash, and two great grandchildren.

The body is at the Wappner funeral home. Services will be held there Monday at 1:30 p. m. in charge of Rev. Paul H. Saleste. Burial will be in the Ziders cemetery.

193 QUALIFY IN WATER COURSE

Richland Countians Learn to Swim In Red Cross Classes.

With the beginning of the new school term, the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross ended its first full summer water safety program since 1942.

Of the hundreds of persons of all ages, many of whom had never been in swimming before who took the course, 193 passed qualifying tests and were awarded beginner's certificates, according to Sam Fox, chairman of the water safety committee.

Fox said a total of 819 persons had enrolled in beginner's, intermediate, junior and senior lifesaving classes during the campaign.

Instruction was given at the Liberty Park and North Lake pools in Mansfield, and the Shelby Municipal pool.

Intermediate certificates were awarded to 33 of the 108 persons who enrolled in that class through the summer instruction periods.

In the lifesaving classes 41 persons earned Junior Red Cross Lifesaving certificates and 25 others earned Senior Lifesaving certificates, Fox reported.

MADISON GRANGE PLANS FESTIVAL

Committees Named for Event Slated for Sept. 26.

Final plans for the annual Fall Festival to be held at Little Washington, Sept. 26, were made by the Madison grange last night.

Supper will be served to the public and displays of foods, art work and antiques will be arranged in the Little Washington church. Committees include: Lester McFarland, family and general farm displays; Howard Stone, antiques; Mrs. Robert Hammett, flowers; Mrs. George Secrist, baked goods; Mrs. Bentley Ray, fancy work and novelties; Richard Fisher, advertising.

Mrs. Arthur Mellick, deputy, of Richland county grange, inspected the Madison grange work. Later, the topic, "How can the church, the school, and the grange cooperate to make the community a better place in which to live," was discussed. Participants in this forum were Mrs. Harold Baer, Mrs. Marion Lutz and Mrs. Virgil Farst. Robert Criblez played accordion solos.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Trease were appointed by Mrs. Richard Fisher, lecturer, to have charge of the Oct. 5 meeting. Plans for a Halloween party are in charge of Donald Stone.

CITY RESIDENT 40 YEARS DIES

Mrs. Poling's Three-Year Illness Proves Fatal.

Mrs. Bessie E. Poling, wife of Frank C. Poling, 99 Glenwood boulevard, died in General hospital at 1:15 a. m. today following an illness of three years.

Born in Rothsville, Pa., Sept. 10, 1885, she had been a resident of Mansfield for 40 years. She had been active in St. Luke's Lutheran church and was also a member of the Women's Federation.

She leaves her husband, a son, Richard R. Poling; a grandson, Richard R. Poling, II; a brother, Richard N. Lane, and two sisters, Mrs. Curtis DeWitt, all of Mansfield, and Mrs. Michael Maraia, Cleveland.

Friends may call at the Finefrock funeral home where services will be conducted Monday at 3:30 p. m. by Dr. Herbert S. Garnes, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church. Burial will be in Memorial park.

Ex-Resident, 92, Dies on Coast

Mrs. Josephine Morrow Stanton, 92, former Mansfield resident died in her home in San Diego, Calif. Thursday, friends here learned today. Death followed a lingering illness.

Mrs. Stanton was born in Mansfield. She was the widow of William Stanton. One sister, Mrs. J. D. Beckwith, died here several years ago. A few nieces and nephews survive.

Mrs. Stanton, a member of the First Presbyterian church here, had resided in San Diego for 40 years.

The body will be brought to the Finefrock funeral home for services. Burial will be in the Mansfield cemetery.

4 OUT-OF-TOWN AUTOS LOOTED

Three of Break-Ins Occur On West Fourth.

Thieves broke into four out-of-town vehicles here last night or early today and police said that a double strand of pearls, a gold pin, and a camera, taken from one auto, were still missing.

Three of the break-ins occurred on West Fourth street, the other on Park avenue west. The fourth vehicle was a truck.

F. C. Heiss, of Washington, D. C., said that burglars took the pearls, pin and a camera, as well as two suitcases full of clothes from his auto. Police recovered the clothes on Western avenue early today. The car was entered on West Fourth street.

Heiss told police the gold pin was an heirloom and had sentimental value.

Russell Reichert, of Riverdale, N. J., said his machine was parked on West Fourth when burglars smashed a ventilator to gain entry. The car was ransacked but nothing taken.

John R. Long, Burlington, Iowa, told police some one broke into his car last night on West Fourth street. W. A. Schweikle of Findlay reported that his truck was ransacked while it was parked on Park avenue west. Long said that a three-piece carving set was stolen. Would-be thieves smashed a door window of the Schweikle truck and contents were strewn over the inside and outside, officers said.

Meat Famine Coming Soon

will be below those of the last two months.

Price Administrator Porter flew to Chicago for a private conference yesterday at which he received assurances from major packers that they will "help make meat price controls work."

A big share of the beef, 42 per cent of the pork, and a much smaller share of lamb and mutton will return to the same ceilings that prevailed last June. Most of the price increases were tacked onto the prime and choice cuts.

All OPA men carefully avoided any attempts to say just how much the rollback will be on prices that have been charged during the period of no ceilings.

They explained that the pricing pattern in the million-odd retail shops is highly varied and in any event the housewife who does the buying will have all the answers when she goes marketing Tuesday.

Andrews Dies

Life Resident Succumbs to Brief Illness.

Elmer Ellsworth Andrews, 76, Ashland road, died early today at Mansfield General hospital following a brief illness.

Born in Richland county, March 14, 1870, Mr. Andrews was a life resident of the vicinity of Mansfield. He was a member of the Shiloh Methodist Episcopal church.

He leaves his widow; one son, Walter R. Andrews, two daughters, Mrs. Harold Marshall of Ontario, and Mrs. James Brooks of this city, a brother, William Andrews of Shelby, and a sister, Mrs. Cora Burkholder of Parkersburg, W. Va.

Friends may call at the Finefrock funeral home where services will be conducted Monday at 1:30 p. m. by Rev. R. E. McNary of the Ontario Community church. Burial will be in Lexington cemetery.

Data Offered Service Wives

Th Richland county Red Cross chapter has available at the Chapter house on Park avenue west information of interest to servicemen's families going overseas.

It lists countries in which dependents are permitted to join military personnel and data regarding baggage, transportation, and other things a housewife and mother would want to know about living conditions in a foreign country.

DARK SHOES—

A 12-year-old Courtwright boulevard lad will look for his shoes in daylight after this. Police received a call about 9 p. m. yesterday from a Woodland road resident. She said that there was a "prowler" outside her home. Police in a cruiser hurried to investigate. The "prowler," it turned out, was the 12-year-old. He said he had "lost his shoe" and had returned to look for it. Officers escorted him home and warned him about conducting after-dark shoe "shines."

FIND OLD TAX RECEIUT—

A 110-year-old receipt for a "county tax" was the marvel of the morning among county officials today. Mrs. Rhea ("Min") Bauer of Bellville exhibited the ancient document in an old scrapbook kept by her friend, the late Mrs. Jessie Leiter Arehart. The receipt is written in ink on a mere scrap of paper and signed by "George W. Post, deputy treasurer." Dated Oct. 6, 1836, the paper says "Received of Mr. David Leiter two dollars and twenty-nine cents in full for his county tax for 1836." Nobody seems to know what a "county tax" was.

RESTRICTIONS BACK AFTER 9-DAY LAPSE

Decree Provides for Special Military Courts to Try Alleged 'Bandits.'

ATHENS — (U.P.) — The Greek government today clamped the whole country under martial law, reimposing the drastic provisions of "extraordinary law" which had been relaxed for last Sunday's referendum.

(A Greek spokesman in London said Premier Constantin Tsaldaris had been consulted regarding the move. He said that martial law had been imposed only in northern Greece. However, the Athens Dispatch said the entire country was affected.)

The government decree suspends normal provisions of Greek law and enables the government to proceed under military powers to make arrests and maintain order.

The decree issued by the cabinet provides for special military courts to try alleged "bandits." Prior to the plebiscite it had been applied only to northern and central Greece.

Today's measure, however, applied to the entire country.

Greece had only been out from under the drastic law for nine days. It was lifted two days before the referendum for the benefit of public opinion at home and abroad.

The law authorized police to arrest anyone suspected of planning to do anything which might be regarded as "dangerous to public order" in the opinion of the police officer. Suspects are tried immediately by military courts and sentenced to exile on small islands, jailed or otherwise punished.

The government has exhibited great apprehensions, particularly as a result of the "rocket reports" from Salonika. British military quarters have characterized the rocket reports as without foundation but the government fears have not been allayed.

The decision was taken in a special meeting lasting two and a half hours. Officially it resulted from increased Communist activity in the country. Increased official concern over the possibility of an attack from the north contributed to the decision.

Acting Premier Stylianos Gonatas told the United Press after the cabinet session that the downing of a Greek airforce Spitfire over Yugoslavia yesterday was "the official expression of what we had seen in advance—that Yugoslavs have claims against our country."

CHICKEN-KILLING BOY CONVICTED

Three 'Teen-Age Autoists Draw Penalties.

Three teen-age youths were penalized for traffic law violations today and an eight-year-old boy was convicted of tramping a neighbor's chicken to death beneath his feet.

The eight-year-old, an Averill avenue youngster, was charged in a juvenile court hearing with being delinquent. The boy was ordered, through his father, to pay the neighbor 50 cents for the dead fowl. His father was ordered to reprimand him.

Convicted of speeding on Central avenue at a rate of 45 miles per hour in a 25-mile-per-hour zone, Richard L. Baker, 16, of 475 Fifth avenue, lost his driver's license for 60 days. Judge S. H. Cramer warned him not to violate traffic laws.

Also losing his driver's permit for 60 days was Lauren E. McClennathan, 16, of Cardington R. D. 3. McClennathan was convicted of driving with a temporary permit but unaccompanied by a licensed driver.

Paul A. Gremling, 16, of 163 South Mulberry street, was fined $5 and costs after he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a truck 45 miles per hour in a 25-miles-per-hour zone on Bowman street. He was warned that his license would be suspended at the next violation.

A 17-year-old Shelby youth was ordered to appear in juvenile court Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. to answer to a statutory charge filed by the county prosecutor.
